HOUSE MOSER

Neustift im Stubaital, Austria

Periphery

The architects have converted an old barn, which was to be demolished, into a residential building. They have relocated it and refurbished the existing wooden structure carefully. The outside has retained its dark, weathered off appearance. Inside, the old wooden supporting structure is still present and has been supplemented by new wooden infill. The old barn has become a single family home with a rich atmosphere, which emerges from the combination of old and new wood, its bright and dark colours, and the lighting scenes and open spaces.
